Cases on Quality Teaching Practices in Higher Education

Diane Salter (PhD, Canada)

Although educators continue to face the issue of maintaining quality teaching practices, academic managers and educational developers face significant challenges when changing in higher education teaching strategies.

Cases on Quality Teaching Practices in Higher Education presents international case studies of individual approaches and institutional examples to benefit teachers at the individual level as well as institutional leaders involved in change. This publication is suitable for both undergraduate and graduate level courses in education related best practices in pedagogy, innovation in the use of technology, and the future direction of universities in the advancement of teaching practices.

Topics Covered:

- Approaches and Perceptions of Teaching
- Best-Practice in Teaching and Learning
- Globalization of the University
- International Perspectives on Teaching
- Leadership in Teaching and Learning
- Pedagogically Sound Use of Technology

Chapter 1

Lessons From Award Winning Teachers: Implications for Staff Development and Institutional Change

Dr. Diane Salter

Chapter 2

Quality Teaching Quality Learning

Professor Mike Prosser

SECTION 2: Case Studies from Award Winning Teachers

Chapter 3

Quality Teaching in the Social Sciences

Prof. Lynne Hunt

Chapter 4

Problem Taming by Problem Framing: Using Research in Design Methods to Develop Reflective Problem Solving

Dr. David Dunne

Chapter 5

Using Technology in Learning and Teaching: Making the right choices is all about understanding the problem(s) to be solved

Prof. Ron Oliver

Chapter 6

Applying Technology in a Classroom Setting, Where Procedural Learning is the Focus
Dr. Elliott Currie

Chapter 7
White Coat, Warm heart
Dr. Carol-Ann Courneya

Chapter 8
Embracing Diversity and Mindfulness in Teaching
Prof. L.C. Chan

Chapter 9
Research-inspired Teaching and Teaching-inspired Research
Dr. Gregor Campbell

Chapter 10
Educating Scholarly Students: An expression of the research-teaching nexus
Tanya Chichekian, Olivia (Liv) Hua, Prof. Bruce Shore

SECTION 3: Institutional Case Studies that Support Excellence in Teaching

Chapter 11
3M Fellows Making a Mark in Canadian Higher Education
Dr. Arshad Ahmad, Dr. Denise Stockley, Dr. Roger Moore

Chapter 12
Institutional Initiative to Foster a Scholarly Approach to Summative and Formative Peer-review of Teaching within and across the Disciplines in a Research-intensive University
Dr. Harry Hubball, Prof. Anthony Clarke , Dr. Daniel Pratt

Chapter 13
Developing Scholarly Teaching at a Research University: Using Learning Communities to Build Capacity for Change
Dr. Spencer Benson, Dr. Anne Smithy, Dr. David Eubanks

Chapter 14
Motivating Teaching Excellence: Lessons from U.S. Teaching Awards
Dr. Peter Felton, Dr. Ashley Finley

Chapter 15
Changing Culture: Developing a Framework for Leadership Capacity Development
Dr. Gerry Lefoe, Dr. Dominique Parish

Chapter 16
Getting the Context Right

Prof. Lynne Hunt, Dr. Michael Sankey

Chapter 17

Achieving Excellence in Teaching: A Case Study in the Provision of Professional Development in a Research Intensive University

Dr. Iain Doherty

Chapter 18

Pedagogical Action Research: Enhancing Learning and Teaching Through a Community of Practice

Prof. Lin Norton Dr. Tessa Owens

Chapter 19

The Single Most Consequential Thing we do in Universities: A Case-study in Teaching Assessment to New Academics

Dr. Grant Campbell

Chapter 20

Reflections on the Role of Self-Paced, Online Resources in Higher Education or How YouTube is teaching me how to knit

Dr Cath Ellis

Chapter 21

Defining University Teaching Excellence in a Globalized Profession

Prof. Kenneth Bartlett

Acknowledgements

It is a great pleasure to express my thanks to the many people who contributed to making the writing of this book possible. Firstly, I would like to thank the University of Hong Kong for providing the research grant that enabled my research on the approaches and perceptions of award winning teachers. Without this funding I would not have been able to hear the stories that were the catalyst for this collection. I would also like to acknowledge the work of my research assistant Ms Joy Lam, Centre for the Enhancement of Teaching and Learning (CETL), at The University of Hong Kong for the support that she provided and her dedicated work during the research process. I would also like to express my appreciation for the support of Dr Fred Lockwood, Emeritus Professor of Learning and Teaching, Manchester Metropolitan University, UK, for his advice and encouragement as I developed my vision for this book and for his help as I developed my proposal for the publication. I would also like to acknowledge the support and encouragement of my husband Bill Menzo who has been an inspiration from the conception to the completion of this book both through our lively discussions on quality teaching and learning and his editorial support.

Most importantly, I would like to thank and express my gratitude to the 32 contributing authors who wrote chapters for this collection. Without their wisdom and willingness to share their insights this edition would not be possible. These include the following, listed by country of participation:

Australia: Prof. Lynne Hunt, Emeritus Professor, University of Southern Queensland, Adjunct Professor, University of Western Australia; Dr. Geraldine Lefoe, Associate Professor, Academic Development Unit, University of Wollongong, Australia; Prof. Ron Oliver, Pro-Vice-Chancellor (Teaching and Learning), Edith Cowan University; Dr Dominique Parrish, Senior Lecturer, Director Learning, Teaching and the Student Experience, Faculty of Health & Behavioural Sciences, University of Wollongong; Dr. Michael Sankey, Senior Lecturer, Learning Technologies Office of PVC Learning Teaching and Quality, University of Southern Queensland

Canada: Dr. Arshad Ahmad, Associate Professor, Department of Finance, John Molson School of Business, Concordia University, Canada; Prof. Kenneth Bartlett, Professor, Department of History, University of Toronto; Ms. Tanya Chichekian, PhD. Candidate, McGill University; Prof. Anthony Clarke, Professor, Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy, Faculty of Education, Co-Director, Centre for the Study of Teacher Education, Faculty of Education, University of British Columbia; Dr. Carol-Ann Courneya, Associate Professor, Department of Cellular and Physiological Sciences, Faculty of Medicine, University of British Columbia; Dr. Elliott Currie, Associate Professor, Department of Business, University of Guelph; Dr. David Dunne, Adjunct Professor, Rotman School of Management, University of Toronto; Ms. Olivia (Liv) Hua), PhD candidate, McGill University; Dr. Harry Hubball, Associate Professor, Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy, University of British Columbia; Dr. Roger Moore, Professor Emeritus, St. Thomas University; Prof. Daniel Pratt, Professor, Department of Education Studies, Faculty of Education, Senior Scholar, Centre for Health Education Scholarship, Faculty of Medicine, University of British Columbia; Prof. Bruce Shore, Professor of Educational Psychology, Department of Educational and Counselling Psychology, Faculty of

Education, McGill University; Dr. Denise Stockley, Associate Professor, Education, Queens University

Hong Kong: Prof. LC Chan, Chair Professor, Department of Pathology, Faculty of Medicine, University of Hong Kong, SAR, People's Republic of China; Prof. Mike Prosser, Honorary Professor, The University of Hong Kong; Honorary Professor, The University of Sydney;

New Zealand: Dr. Iain Doherty, Director, eLearning Pedagogical Support Unit, The Centre for the Enhancement of Teaching and Learning, The University of Hong Kong (formerly The University of Auckland, New Zealand)

UK: Dr Grant Campbell, Reader in the School of Chemical Engineering and Analytical Science at The University of Manchester; Dr. Gregor Campbell, Principal Teaching Fellow, Department of Cell and Developmental Biology, Division of Biosciences, Faculty of Life Sciences, University College London, UK; Dr. Cath Ellis, Head of Combined Honours, School of Music, Humanities and Media, University of Huddersfield; Prof. Lin Norton, Emeritus Professor of Pedagogical Research, Liverpool Hope University; Dr. Tessa Owens, Principal Lecturer in Learning & Teaching, Director for the Centre for Pedagogy, Award Director of Masters in Academic Practice, Liverpool Hope

USA: Dr. Spencer Benson, Director, Centre for Teaching Excellence, Department of Cell Biology and Molecular Genetics, University of Maryland; Dr. David Eubanks, Associate Director of College Park Scholars, University of Maryland; Dr. Peter Felten, Assistant Provost, Director of the Center for the Advancement of Teaching and Learning, and Associate Professor of History at Elon University; Dr. Ashley Finley, Senior Director of Assessment and Research at the Association of American Colleges and Universities (AAC&U); Prof. Gray Kochhar-Lindgren, Professor of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences; Director, Centre for University Studies and Programs, University of Washington; Dr. Ann C. Smith, Assistant Dean in the Office of Undergraduate Studies, University of Maryland

In addition, I would like to acknowledge and thank the hundreds of award winning teachers who shared their ideas and experiences with me over several years of data collection for the research project described in chapter 1 of this book. These busy academics willingly gave their time to answer my questions and share their stories about teaching in research-intensive universities. I would especially like to thank those who were interviewed during Phase 1 of the study for generously giving of their time for the in-depth interview process. These include the following, listed by country of participation and their institutional affiliation at the time of the interview:

Australia: Dr. Michael Adams, Senior Lecturer, Woolyungah Indigenous Centre, University of Wollongong; Dr. Mark Freeman, Lecturer, School of Information Systems and Technology, University of Wollongong; Prof. Andrew Gleadow, Professor, School of Earth Sciences, University of Melbourne; Dr. Christina Poyatos Matas, Senior Lecturer, School of Languages and Linguistics, Griffith University; Dr. J. Charles Schencking, Senior Lecturer, School of Historical Studies, University of Melbourne; Dr. Andrew Ooi Seng Hock, Associate Professor, Department of Mechanical Engineering, University of Melbourne; Dr. Ken Russell, Associate Professor, School of Mathematics and Applied Statistics, University of Wollongong; Dr. Sandra Kentish, Associate Professor, Department of Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering, University of Melbourne; Dr. Anne Abraham, Senior Lecturer, School of Accounting, University of Western Sydney; Prof. Steven Teo, Professor, College of Business, University of Western Sydney; Ms. Judith Marychurch, Senior Lecturer, Faculty of Law, University of Wollongong; Dr. Gary Noble, Associate Professor, School of Management and Marketing, University of Wollongong; Dr. Michelle Lincoln, Associate Professor, Discipline of Speech Pathology, University of Sydney; Dr. Moira Williamson, Senior Lecturer, School of Nursing, Midwifery and Indigenous Health, University of Wollongong; Prof. Catherine Bennett, Professor, School of Health and Social Development, Deakin University.

Canada: Dr. Harry Hubball, Associate Professor, Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy, University of British Columbia; Prof. Kenneth Bartlett, Professor, Department of History, University of Toronto; Prof. Dana Paramskas, Professor, School of Languages and Literatures, University of Guelph; Dr. Andrew Dicks, Senior Lecturer, Department of Chemistry, University of Toronto; Prof. Yu-Ling Cheng, Professor, Department of Chemical Engineering and Applied Chemistry, University of Toronto; Prof. Judith Poe, Senior Lecturer, Department of Chemistry, University of Toronto Mississauga; Prof. David Dunne, Adjunct Professor, Rotman School of Management, University of Toronto; Prof. Elliott Currie, Associate Professor, Department of Business, University of Guelph; Dr. Stephen Lynch, Associate Professor, School of Hospitality and Tourism Management, University of Guelph; Dr. Brian Hodges, Professor, Department of Psychiatry, University of Toronto; Dr. Richard Reznick, Professor, Department of Surgery, University of Toronto; Dr. Andrew Peregrine, Associate Professor, Department of Pathobiology, University of Guelph

Hong Kong: Dr. Carol Chan, Associate Professor, Faculty of Education, The University of Hong Kong; Prof. LC Chan, Chair Professor, Department of Pathology, Faculty of Medicine, The University of Hong Kong, SAR, People's Republic of China; Prof. Ali Farhoomand, Professor, School of Business, The University of Hong Kong; Mr. Rick Glofcheski, Professor, Faculty of Law, University of Hong Kong; Dr. Julia Kuehn, Associate Professor, Faculty of Arts, The University of Hong Kong; Prof. Frederick Leung, Professor School of Biological Sciences, Faculty of Science, The University of Hong Kong; Ms. Katherine Lynch, Associate Professor, Faculty of Law, The University of Hong Kong; Dr. Duncan Macfarlane, Dr. Stephen Pointing, Associate Professor, School of Biological Sciences, Faculty of Science, The University of Hong Kong.

About the Contributors

Diane Salter, PhD, MSc, BSc, is Vice Provost, Teaching and Learning at Kwantlen Polytechnic University in British Columbia, Canada. Her previous positions include: Associate Professor and Academic Staff Development Program Lead, Centre for the Enhancement of Teaching and Learning (CETL), at the University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong, PRC; Dean of the Centre for Curriculum and Faculty Development at Sheridan Institute for Technology and Advanced Learning, Ontario, Canada; Assistant Research Professor at the University of Waterloo in the Centre for Learning and Teaching with Technology, Canada; Assistant Professor University of Toronto, Canada. She has taught extensively internationally in curriculum development including conducting workshops and consulting in Australia, Austria, USA, Sri Lanka, Thailand, Macau, Hong Kong, and China. Diane was a co-recipient of the Ron Harden Innovation in Medical Education (RHIME) Award, for the curriculum developed for the special study module, 'Pen, Brush and Camera' (with Prof. Li Chong Chan and Dr. Julie Chen). Diane has over 20 years of experience in teaching and academic development in international institutions. Dr Salter has published over 75 items including book chapters, journal articles, and conference proceedings.

Arshad Ahmad, Associate Professor, Department of Finance, John Molson School of Business, Concordia University, Canada. Dr. Ahmad is President of the Society for Teaching & Learning in Higher Education (STLHE) in Canada. STLHE strives to be the pre-eminent national voice, and a world leader, for enhancing teaching and learning in higher education. He is also Vice-President of the International Consortium for Educational Development which includes networks from 16 countries around the world. In 1992, Dr. Ahmad was recognized with a lifetime 3M National Teaching Fellowship, a program he subsequently coordinated for 10 years. Dr. Ahmad has authored three textbooks and has consulted widely in both public and private organizations. He is known for his ability to design creative and student centered learning environments and to lead collaborative projects that enhance student learning.

About the Contributors

Kenneth Bartlett, Professor of History and Renaissance Studies, Professor of History and Renaissance Studies, Department of History, Faculty of Arts and Science, University of Toronto, Canada. Professor Bartlett was the first director of U of T's Office of Teaching Advancement (2002-2009). He was editor of Renaissance and Reformation/Renaissance et Réforme and president of the Canadian Society for Renaissance Studies, has authored The Civilization of the Italian Renaissance, The English in Italy: A Study in Culture and Politics, and three video series, and was the founding director of the University of Toronto Art Centre. He has received an inaugural President's Teaching Award, an Arbor Award, and in 2005, he was awarded the prestigious 3M National Teaching Fellowship.

Spencer Benson, Director, Centre for Teaching Excellence, Department of Cell Biology and Molecular Genetics; University of Maryland, US, CASE-Carnegie Maryland Professor of the Year, American Society for Microbiology Carski Teaching Award, 2008 Fulbright Fellow to Hong Kong. As Director of the Center for Teaching Excellence, Dr. Benson oversees more than 20 programs directed at enhancing teaching and student learning including seven faculty and graduate student learning communities. Dr. Benson has organized local, national, and international meetings on science education, E-learning, Scholarship in Teaching and Learning (SoTL) and faculty development.

Grant Campbell, Reader in the School of Chemical Engineering and Analytical Science at The University of Manchester, UK. Dr. Campbell has diverse teaching experience across the full scope of undergraduate and postgraduate courses, including lectured courses, laboratory practicals, design projects, and research projects. He is also research active in the area of grain process engineering. Formerly the School's examinations secretary and currently External Examiner at Nottingham, he also has substantial experience in assessment. His teaching has been recognized by the award of the Institution of Chemical Engineers' Frank Morton Medal for Excellence in Chemical Engineering Education.

Gregor Campbell, Principal Teaching Fellow, Department of Cell and Developmental Biology, Division of Biosciences, Faculty of Life Sciences, University College London, UK. Dr. Gregor Campbell, Recipient of 2008 UCL Provost's Teaching Award in Experienced Academic Staff Category and 2009 UCL Medical School's David Jordan Award, is the Principal Teaching Fellow in Department of Cell and Developmental Biology, Division of Biosciences, Faculty of Life Sciences, University College London. His research interests are on education of microscopic anatomy particularly in relation to innovative methods involving e-learning for medical and science undergraduates.

L. C. Chan, Chair Professor, Department of Pathology, Faculty of Medicine, University of Hong Kong, SAR, People's Republic of China. Prof. Chan Li Chong is a Chair Professor of the Department of Pathology, Faculty of Medicine, the University of Hong Kong. He is also Co-Director of the Centre for the Humanities and Medicine, the University of Hong Kong, and Co-Director of the Medical Humanities and Ethics Unit, Faculty of Medicine, the University of Hong Kong. He has a special interest in Problem Based Learning and curriculum development. He is the recipient of a 2008 Outstanding Teacher Award at the University of Hong Kong.

Tanya Chichekian holds a BEd from McGill University, was a Secondary Mathematics Teacher in Montreal, and Co-Coordinator of Academic Advising at Dawson College in Montreal. She completed her MA in Educational Psychology with a specialization in the Learning Sciences in the Department of Educational and Counselling Psychology and is completing her PhD. Her research interests include mathematics and science education, inquiry-based teaching and learning in general, and in the International Baccalaureat, and the development of learners' and teachers' identity, knowledge, skills, and motivation as inquirers.

Anthony Clarke, Professor, Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy, Faculty of Education; Co-Director, Centre for the Study of Teacher Education, Faculty of Education, University of British Columbia, Canada. Tony spent a number of years as a classroom teacher in Australia before coming to Canada to work with beginning teachers, classroom teachers, and university instructors at UBC. He is involved in a number of projects, including the CITE elementary teacher education initiative at UBC. His work also involves self-study of teacher education practices (e.g., co-chair of UBC's Investigating Our Practices), the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning (informed by his work with the Faculty Certificate Program at UBC), and mentoring in practicum settings (e.g., www.mentoringprofile.com).

Carol-Ann Courneya, Associate Professor, Department of Cellular and Physiological Sciences, Faculty of Medicine, University of British Columbia (UBC), Canada. Carol-Ann Courneya is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Medicine at the University of British Columbia. She holds a UBC Killam Teaching Award and a 3M National Teaching Fellowship. Her textbook Cardiovascular Physiology, is used as a standard for teaching clinically relevant CV physiology. She founded (2001) and directs two annual Art Projects, one at UBC Medicine called "Heartfelt Images" and one at Patan Academy in Nepal called "My Heart My Art" that celebrate cardiac-inspired art. Dr. Courneya founded and co-directs a national art exhibit called White Coat Warm Art that showcases art created by health sciences students, residents and faculty from across Canada.

About the Contributors

Elliott Currie, Associate Professor, Department of Business, College of Management & Economics, University of Guelph, Canada. Elliott Currie has been at the University of Guelph since 1998 teaching in the various areas and level of accounting and financial management. Currently Elliott is also involved in teaching management accounting and tax at the undergraduate level and occasionally business strategy. The primary focus of Elliott's scholarly endeavours is in the areas of small business management, interdisciplinary and new product development and the competitiveness of the Ontario Agri-Food chain. Another role Elliott plays is that of Academic Advisor to the Bachelor of Commerce Accounting at the University of Guelph.

Iain Doherty, Director, eLearning Pedagogical Support Unit, The Centre for the Enhancement of Teaching and Learning, The University of Hong Kong, SAR, People's Republic of China. Dr. Iain Doherty is the Director of the eLearning Pedagogical Support Unit in the Centre for the Enhancement of Teaching and Learning at the University of Hong Kong. Iain is responsible for leading in the implementation of The University of Hong Kong's eLearning Strategy. This means that he is proactive in operational leadership, operational management, managing change, designing and developing professional learning opportunities for academic staff and in working collaboratively to develop a supportive eLearning community at the University of Hong Kong.

David Dunne, Adjunct Professor of Marketing, Joseph L. Rotman School of Management, University of Toronto; Senior Fellow, Beedie School of Business, Simon Fraser University; 3M National Fellow, Canada; President's Teaching Award and Teaching Academy, University of Toronto. Prof. Dunne is an award-winning management educator, author, and consultant. His passion is teaching customer experience design. Marrying international business experience in marketing and advertising with an outstanding record as an academic, he teaches creative problem solving, design and marketing throughout the world. He works as a volunteer to foster higher education in the poorest countries.

Cath Ellis, Head of Combined Honours, School of Music, Humanities and Media, University of Huddersfield, UK. Cath Ellis took up her post at Huddersfield in 2005 having moved to the UK from Australia, where she had taught at the University of Wollongong and the University of New England. She has led two multidisciplinary degree courses and a Teaching Quality Enhancement Fund (TQEF) project supporting others to experiment with innovative teaching and learning. Her disciplinary area is postcolonial literary and cultural studies. Cath was awarded a National Teaching Fellowship in 2010 and is currently leading a JISC funded project evaluating Electronic Assessment Management.

David Eubanks, Associate Director of College Park Scholars, University of Maryland, USA. Dr. Eubanks coordinates assessment efforts, pedagogy enhancements, and faculty development for College Park Scholars' eleven living-learning programs. He previously served as Assistant Director and Interim Director of the University of Maryland Center for Teaching Excellence, where he developed and collaborated on efforts to enhance undergraduate teaching and learning across campus. He has delivered workshops and presentations across campus and at regional, national, and international conferences and has taught courses in US literature, pedagogy, writing, and research.

Peter Felten, Assistant Provost for Teaching and Learning, Director of the Center for Engaged Learning, Executive Director of the Center for the Advancement of Teaching and Learning, and Professor of History at Elon University, USA. Dr. Felten is a past president of the POD Network, the professional association for teaching and learning centers in the U.S. Peter's recent scholarship focuses on student-faculty partnerships and on faculty mentoring communities.

Ashley Finley, Senior Director of Assessment and Research at the Association of American Colleges and Universities (AAC&U) and the national evaluator for the Bringing Theory to Practice (BTtoP) Project. Through her work with both AAC&U and BTtoP, Dr. Finley helps colleges and universities to develop, implement, and communicate meaningful assessment strategies that facilitate depth of learning at the student, faculty, and institutional levels. Before joining AAC&U, she was an Assistant Professor of Sociology at Dickinson College.

Olivia (Liv) Hua, BA, BEd, PhD candidate of Prof. Bruce Shore. Olivia (Liv) Hua has a B.A. (honours) in psychology from the University of Waterloo and an MA in Educational Psychology from McGill University. She is currently completing a PhD in Educational Psychology (Learning Sciences Concentration) at McGill. Her research interests include gifted education (secondary school level), inquiry-based science teaching (higher education), undergraduate mentorship, and university leadership.

Harry Hubball, Former Senior Advisor for Teaching and Learning, and Director, Institute for the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning, pro-tem; Professor, Faculty of Education, University of British Columbia, Canada. His research and practice focus on scholarly approaches to curriculum renewal and pedagogical practices in diverse university, programme and disciplinary contexts.

Lynne Hunt, Emeritus Professor, University of Southern Queensland, Adjunct Professor, University of Western Australia, Adjunct Professor (Global Learning Division, University of Southern Queensland). Professor Hunt won the 2002 Prime Minister's Award for Australian University Teacher of the Year and an Australian Executive Endeavour Award (2009). She has co-edited two books: The Realities of Change in Higher Education: Interventions to Promote Learning and Teaching (2006) and University Teaching in Focus: A Learning Centred Approach (2012). Professor Hunt was a member of the Board of the Australian Learning and Teaching Council and she has served internationally in external review roles for the University of Pretoria and the University of Botswana.

Gray Kochhar-Lindgren, Associate Vice Chancellor for Undergraduate Learning, University of Washington, USA. Prof. Kochhar is a Professor of Philosophy, Literature, and Interdisciplinary Studies at the University of Washington, Bothell, and the Honorary Professor of the Centre for the Humanities and Medicine in University of Hong Kong from 2010 to 2013. The author of Narcissus Transformed, Starting Time, TechnoLogics, Night Café, and Philosophy, Art, and the Specters of Jacques Derrida, he is currently working on TransPacific Cities, Global Noir, Bioregional Curriculum Design, and the Global University. Gray, a recipient of two teaching awards, has taught in Switzerland, Germany, and the United States, and, in 2009-10, served as a Fulbright Scholar in General Education at the University of Hong Kong and the Hong Kong American Center.

Geraldine Lefoe, Associate Professor, Academic Development Unit, University of Wollongong, Australia. Dr. Lefoe was a recipient of 2009 Australian Learning and Teaching Council (ALTC) Citation for Outstanding Contribution to Student Learning and Associate Professor, Academic Development Unit, CEDiR, University of Wollongong, Australia. Her research interests include distributed leadership in higher education, pedagogical use of educational technologies to enhance learning and teaching; improving outcomes for sessional staff; and the role of co-teachers in transnational education. She was awarded life membership of Australasian Society for Computers in Learning in Tertiary Education (ascilite) in 2010 to recognize her significant contribution towards the leadership and strategic activities of the ascilite community.

Roger Moore, Professor Emeritus, St. Thomas University, NB, Canada. A specialist in Early Modern (Golden Age) Spanish Literature, Dr. Roger Moore is an award-winning poet, short story writer, film maker (NB Film Coop), and academic researcher, as well as a recipient of two major teaching awards, the 3M National Teaching Fellowship (2000) and the Association of Atlantic Universities' Distin-

the education sector and a wealth of practical experience in adult education in both government and non-government agencies. In 2004, Dominique founded Learning Achievements and Solutions, a business that has delivered services including policy and resource development, online learning and web-based training, project management, organizational research such as staff and client satisfaction and strategic planning. In August 2011, Dominique took up a full time position with the Faculty of Health and Behavioural Sciences at the University of Wollongong as the Director of Learning, Teaching, and the Student Experience.

Daniel Pratt, Professor, Department of Education Studies, Faculty of Education; Senior Scholar, Centre for Health Education Scholarship, Faculty of Medicine, University of British Columbia, Canada. Dan Pratt is Professor of Educational Studies with a cross-appointment to the Faculty of Medicine at the University of British Columbia. He served for five years as the Director of Clinical Educator Fellowships in Medical Education in the Centre for Health Education Scholarship (CHES) and is currently a Senior Scholar within CHES. He is a member of the International Adult & Continuing Education Hall of Fame and in 2008 received Canada's highest university teaching award—the 3M National Teaching Fellowship. His four grand children know nothing of any of this, but simply enjoy him as 'Papa Dan'.

Mike Prosser, Honorary Professor, The University of Hong Kong, Honorary Professor, The University of Sydney, Australia. Michael Prosser recently retired as Executive Director, Centre for the Enhancement of Teaching and Learning, The University of Hong Kong. His academic interests are in student learning and its relationship to teaching in higher education. He has published widely, including co-authored book, and over 90 journal articles and book chapters. He has been elected a life member of the Higher Education Research and Development Society of Australasia for distinguished contributions to teaching and research in higher education and of the International Society for the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning for leadership in the scholarship of teaching and learning.

Michael Sankey, Senior Lecturer, Learning Technologies Office of PVC Learning Teaching and Quality, University of Southern Queensland, Australia. Michael is currently the Program Manager, Learning Technologies and Environments at the University Southern Queensland. He specializes in elearning pedagogies, multimodal design, visual, and multiliteracies. He has worked in Higher Education for over 21 years and is particularly interested in how constructively aligned and aesthetically enhanced learning environments can better transmit concepts to students, particularly those from diverse backgrounds.
